

THE WEEKLY FREE PRESS, 3 cents per copy, 30 cents for six months, $1.00 a year, postage free.
 Advertisements and subscriptions received at the office, 129 College street. Full advertising rates sent on application.
 Accounts cannot be opened for subscriptions. Subscribers will please send with order, names are not entered until payment is received, and all papers are stopped at the end of the time paid for.

Remittance at the risk of the subscriber until made by registered letter, or by check or postal order payable to the Publishers.
 The date when the subscription expires is on the address-label of each paper, the change of which to a subsequent date becomes a receipt for remittance. No other receipt is sent unless requested. The receipt of the paper is a sufficient receipt for the first subscription.
 When a change of address is desired, both the old and new addresses should be given.

Terms—$1.00 a Year, Always in Advance.

BURLINGTON, THURSDAY, DEC. 7.

WANTED.

When you want anything, advertise in the new special column of this paper. Some bargains are offered there this week which it will pay you to read about. See page seven. This paper has more than 25,000 readers every week, and one cent a word will reach them all.

President John H. Mead of the Vermont Sheep Breeders' association says that the effect of the new wool tariff would annihilate the wool interests of this State entirely.

Judging from the number of jail deliveries that have occurred in Bennington county a new jail is a pressing need there. Until this defect can be remedied the authorities should post notices in the present structure, asking prisoners not to lean against the walls.

The rapid transit commissioners have gone back to a new elevated railroad scheme as a means of solving the rapid transit problem in New York. This solution has already been considered and rejected, and the chances are that the commissioners will finally be obliged to accept the mode system projected for the metropolis by the late Hon. D. C. Linsley of Vermont.

Although the true nature of the alleged State bank at Barton has been disclosed sooner than was expected, through the arrest of its organizer for fraud, the outcome is no surprise to people in this section. When it was announced that the list of incorporators included alleged residents of Burlington and Rutland whom no one in these cities knew, the questionable character of the institution at once became apparent. It is fortunate for the citizens of Barton and Orleans county as well, that the organizer had the temerity to start a bank without a dollar with which to meet checks, otherwise the loss through this bogus concern might have been large.

Titied husbands are not in so great demand by American girls as they were once upon a time, and the demand is rapidly growing encouragingly less on account of just such experiences as that of Princess Colonna, daughter of Mrs. John W. Mackay by her first husband. This young woman found out six months after her marriage in 1883 to Prince Ferdinand Gallatino Colonna that her Italian husband had a very marked taste for gambling, horse-racing, and a fast life. She endured life with him until last October, when she took her three children and went to Paris. Now she has applied for a legal separation and the custody of her children. Our readers can readily draw a moral.

Rutland is not the only town in the State where children who ought to be in school are to be found playing truant last week complained of. The large number of children of school age who were to be seen almost every day playing about the village, and a similar condition of affairs undoubtedly prevails in many of the larger towns in the State as well as in most of the smaller ones. Burlington has effected a thorough reform in this respect during the past few years, and every town in Vermont ought to remedy this crying evil at once. Hilarity is a weed of rapid growth and the struggle against its spread can not be too thorough or too persistent.

President Cleveland's Message.

Few president's messages have been looked for with greater curiosity than that which was sent to Congress Monday by Mr. Cleveland. The unsettled status of the tariff question; the agitation concerning changes in the banking laws; the project to impose a tax upon incomes; and the uncertainty which has existed concerning the exact attitude of the administration toward Hawaii, have combined to render the president's announcement of his policy and recommendations of more than usual interest. Nor has the intensity of the interest been lessened by the fact that the public had obtained a fairly correct idea of what the policy of the administration would be concerning the new important issues.

President Cleveland, after speaking of the fact that the duty of preparing a message is "constitutional," devotes his attention first to the subject of our foreign relations, which, he concedes, have not been "entirely free from perplexity." The enforcement of the Gentry law has caused no little uneasiness, but the president thinks that the extension of the time for registration will induce the Chinese who desire to remain in this country to avail themselves of the opportunity to do so by lawful procedure, so that enforced deportation may be to a great degree avoided. The chances would seem to be against such a result, however, for inasmuch as our government has exhibited a hesitancy, which might readily be attributed to fear, in the matter of trying to enforce the law, the Chinese will be likely to try a second time their game of bluff.

In referring to the Hawaiian question, which has confessedly caused the administration serious embarrassment, the president places full reliance upon the "impartial" report of Special Commissioner Blount as showing beyond question that the constitutional government of Hawaii had been overthrown with the active aid of our representative to that government, and Mr. Cleveland holds that the only honorable course for our government is to undo the wrong and restore the queen to her throne.

He does not say this, however, it is significant to note, but delicately veils the thought in the expression, "to restore as far as practicable the status existing at the time of our forcible intervention." The American minister has not accomplished the restoration of the monarchy so far as known, but when the deed is done the president will inform Congress.

Turning to the subject of the revenue the president announces that the estimates show a probable deficiency of $28,000,000 by June 30, 1894, but he suggests no immediate steps to meet this deficiency, relying upon his confidence that "the reduced tariff duties provided for in the proposed legislation, added to existing internal revenue taxation, will, in the near future, though perhaps not immediately, produce sufficient revenue to meet the needs of the government." This is fully in line with the past action of the president, who has shown no inclination to make recommendations regarding positive financial measures.

Mr. Cleveland is satisfied that the recent repeal of the provision of law regarding the purchase of silver bullion by the government as a feature of our monetary scheme has made an entire change in the complexion of our currency affairs. But he is not able to state just what the effect has been. He says that "in the nature of things, however, it is impossible to know at this time precisely what conditions will be brought about by the change, or what, if any supplementary legislation may, in the light of such conditions, appear to be essential or expedient." He is willing to trust the future to solve the problem, but almost any man could do that.

In relation to the treatment of pensioners and especially under the disability pension clause, Mr. Cleveland says that the authoritative construction given to the statute toward the close of the last administration has since been followed, thus evidently intending to convey the impression that the old soldiers are being treated no worse now than they were under Harrison's administration, but this delicate attempt at dissimulation will hardly serve, however, to blind those worthy veterans whose names have been stricken from the pension list under a Southern secretary of the interior.

That subject of the message which is treated in the "last but not least" order is changed under a democratic administration. Changes were entitled to be dignified as changes in the direction of reform. It is significant, however, that after speaking of the palpable benefits of a reduction in duties, the president excuses the "few additional internal revenue taxes" resorted to in order to carry out this promise of alleged reform, on the ground that these new assessments are not only absolutely just and easily borne, but they have the further merit of being such as can be levied without unfavorable business disturbance whenever the necessity of their imposition no longer exists.

Even President Cleveland then does admit, at least by inference, that reductions in tariff duties do result in "unfavorable business disturbance," and uses that fact as an argument in favor of increased internal revenue taxes; while the democratic organs have been loudly proclaiming all the while that the democratic proposition to "smash the tariff" had nothing to do with causing manufacturing and business enterprises to fear and hesitate. President Cleveland "gives away" in more sense than one the whole democratic "tariff reform" scheme when he shows that taxes have been simply taken from one hand and placed in the other, and by acknowledging that tariff tinkering does disturb business. He also admits that if all the interests affected by the new tariff bill it must fail.

Outside of these slips the message is severely noteworthy. It is a fair, business-like document, but it is in marked contrast to some of Mr. Cleveland's aggressive and outspoken utterances when he was addressing the Republican Congress, and even denials will search it in vain for any real help toward the solution of the great problems which are facing our beloved country.

"Why Women Hesitate" Again.

An estimable woman of this city sends us the following communication in reply to our explanation of the statement made by Miss Campbell, secretary of the Woman's Suffrage association of Pennsylvania, to the effect that one of the chief obstacles in the movement was the apathy of the women themselves in the matter of equal political rights for the sexes:

To the Editor of the Free Press:
 Referring to your editorial of November 25, "Why Women Hesitate," it seems quite possible that Miss Campbell, in her regret that some of the vigorous opponents of woman suffrage were found among the women graduates of colleges and universities, counted the fact that many of these women came from homes of wealth and culture, and had little knowledge of the men and women who are not only struggling for a fair education but for the actual necessities of life.

Nature does not know how the other half lives and would not take the trouble to investigate. The men, and women, and other people they are practically ignorant. For instance, women's college settlements in the slums of our great cities. A few educated, cultivated women have had always had an ear to listen to the sad strains of sorrow.
 The sons and daughters, largely entrusted to the care of the mothers of the land, no matter how delicately reared and protected, may come into contact with the same and dangers of those mothers who are either wholly or in part the bread winners for the family, whether it is the land of children or the cradles of a neighboring woman that do it.
 It is possible that when women realize their true function they will be equally as well for their own homes and husbands. If they will guide their sons and daughters into an understanding of what Christ meant when he said "I came to be a servant and to minister." In doing this they will educate the future citizens of our nation to look not from regarding the political arena from the just perspective that new men need them.

When good men and women regard the ballot as a sacred obligation, when only those men and women who have an intelligent conception of its meaning have a right to cast a ballot, then "educated and cultured men" and women too will not "desert from all parties" in politics. As in the model family, the mother is the best teacher of all parties, those governed by the united action of the men and women who have the power invested in them. The mother is the best teacher of the child, and the child is the best teacher of the man. As a rule, so long as she retains her place as the more sensitive and gentler sex, so long will she hesitate to unsex herself by dabbling in politics.
 In Massachusetts the women have been driven into school politics in order to get rid of some immoral commissioner or some one obstructive to the progress of the schools.
 We can safely say, the majority have not coveted this obligation. It is only because a few advanced thinkers have made themselves familiar with the corruption of office seekers in general, and some office holders in particular, that they have been willing to register and take upon themselves the responsibility of casting their votes against the political bosses.

A visit to some of the homes of that State, and of the younger and still to be advanced, might have shown the women changed, but even the Free Press would admit there was no less refinement and gentleness among the women of these homes.

If there is less time spent in adorning the person and in the frivolities of society, there is more spent in discussing the living questions of the day and in endeavoring to solve these less favored.

When women discover their importance as a factor of good government, they will no longer hesitate in assuming the obligation of casting her ballot, whenever it is accorded her.

We desire at the outset, to call the attention of our correspondent to the fact that she has begged the entire question considered by us, and has practically ignored the point raised by Miss Campbell regarding the apathy of women as an obstacle to the woman's rights movement. Consequently many of the statements made are not germane to the subject. We were not arguing against woman's rights but more giving our opinion as to why most women are thus apathetic. Our correspondent criticizes our statement that refined women hesitate to mingle with the vulgar crowd usually found at political primaries or to participate in the festivities of the typical voting booth. She does not tell far short from confirming our interpretation of one influence that prevents women from desiring to dabble in politics, when she by any supplementary legislation may, in the light of such conditions, appear to be essential or expedient.

He is willing to trust the future to solve the problem, but almost any man could do that.

In relation to the treatment of pensioners and especially under the disability pension clause, Mr. Cleveland says that the authoritative construction given to the statute toward the close of the last administration has since been followed, thus evidently intending to convey the impression that the old soldiers are being treated no worse now than they were under Harrison's administration, but this delicate attempt at dissimulation will hardly serve, however, to blind those worthy veterans whose names have been stricken from the pension list under a Southern secretary of the interior.

That subject of the message which is treated in the "last but not least" order is changed under a democratic administration. Changes were entitled to be dignified as changes in the direction of reform. It is significant, however, that after speaking of the palpable benefits of a reduction in duties, the president excuses the "few additional internal revenue taxes" resorted to in order to carry out this promise of alleged reform, on the ground that these new assessments are not only absolutely just and easily borne, but they have the further merit of being such as can be levied without unfavorable business disturbance whenever the necessity of their imposition no longer exists.

Even President Cleveland then does admit, at least by inference, that reductions in tariff duties do result in "unfavorable business disturbance," and uses that fact as an argument in favor of increased internal revenue taxes; while the democratic organs have been loudly proclaiming all the while that the democratic proposition to "smash the tariff" had nothing to do with causing manufacturing and business enterprises to fear and hesitate. President Cleveland "gives away" in more sense than one the whole democratic "tariff reform" scheme when he shows that taxes have been simply taken from one hand and placed in the other, and by acknowledging that tariff tinkering does disturb business. He also admits that if all the interests affected by the new tariff bill it must fail.

Outside of these slips the message is severely noteworthy. It is a fair, business-like document, but it is in marked contrast to some of Mr. Cleveland's aggressive and outspoken utterances when he was addressing the Republican Congress, and even denials will search it in vain for any real help toward the solution of the great problems which are facing our beloved country.

An estimable woman of this city sends us the following communication in reply to our explanation of the statement made by Miss Campbell, secretary of the Woman's Suffrage association of Pennsylvania, to the effect that one of the chief obstacles in the movement was the apathy of the women themselves in the matter of equal political rights for the sexes:

To the Editor of the Free Press:
 Referring to your editorial of November 25, "Why Women Hesitate," it seems quite possible that Miss Campbell, in her regret that some of the vigorous opponents of woman suffrage were found among the women graduates of colleges and universities, counted the fact that many of these women came from homes of wealth and culture, and had little knowledge of the men and women who are not only struggling for a fair education but for the actual necessities of life.

Nature does not know how the other half lives and would not take the trouble to investigate. The men, and women, and other people they are practically ignorant. For instance, women's college settlements in the slums of our great cities. A few educated, cultivated women have had always had an ear to listen to the sad strains of sorrow.
 The sons and daughters, largely entrusted to the care of the mothers of the land, no matter how delicately reared and protected, may come into contact with the same and dangers of those mothers who are either wholly or in part the bread winners for the family, whether it is the land of children or the cradles of a neighboring woman that do it.
 It is possible that when women realize their true function they will be equally as well for their own homes and husbands. If they will guide their sons and daughters into an understanding of what Christ meant when he said "I came to be a servant and to minister." In doing this they will educate the future citizens of our nation to look not from regarding the political arena from the just perspective that new men need them.

When good men and women regard the ballot as a sacred obligation, when only those men and women who have an intelligent conception of its meaning have a right to cast a ballot, then "educated and cultured men" and women too will not "desert from all parties" in politics. As in the model family, the mother is the best teacher of all parties, those governed by the united action of the men and women who have the power invested in them. The mother is the best teacher of the child, and the child is the best teacher of the man. As a rule, so long as she retains her place as the more sensitive and gentler sex, so long will she hesitate to unsex herself by dabbling in politics.
 In Massachusetts the women have been driven into school politics in order to get rid of some immoral commissioner or some one obstructive to the progress of the schools.
 We can safely say, the majority have not cov-

erty, and we are going to have a lieutenant-governor next year. Intending candidates in other parts of the State will please take notice that this is our pie.
 "No trespassing here!"
 It is somewhat only to cut political pie for next year, but inasmuch as our genial contemporary, while too modest to name its candidate, warns against trespassing, we feel it to be due to possible trespassers to state that we understand the situation. Hon. H. C. Bates is the gentleman who is thus nominated in egg. Now if Editor Marsh O. Perkins of Windsor will hoist a "keep-out-of-the-pie" sign, the State at large will be informed as to the possible candidates for the lieutenant governorship. It is evident that the "east side" has no lack of good men for the position.

The New Tariff Bill.

It is quite evident that the framers of the new tariff bill do not believe that protection is unconstitutional, fraudulent and a robbery; for the principle is observed in some parts of the measure, while elsewhere it is entirely discarded. It looks as if the democratic members of the ways and means committee had attempted to frame a measure which would partially satisfy the protectionist members of their party and at the same time please the ardent free trade democrats. They have thus attempted to ride two steeds that are going in opposite directions, and they can not very well avoid a serious tumble. At the same time they confess that the people were fooled by their tariff talk in 1892.

A striking feature of the new tariff bill is the large number of articles which it adds to the free list. Ores, coal, lumber, wool and other textile fibers are thus treated, and some idea of the extent to which the tariff has been smashed can be obtained from the fact that the list of articles, which can be imported free of duty occupies more than two columns of the print in the metropolitan dailies. But the free list is not the only feature of the bill which aims a blow at American industries. A system of yearly reductions in some directions has been devised, so that it will be impossible for the manufacturer to look more than a few months ahead. A real manufacture for future delivery will be discouraged and the spot delivery trade will be the only one in which many industries can depend during a considerable portion of the year.

The severest blow seems, however, to have been aimed at the farmers of the north, for the abolition of the duties on wool, eggs and vegetables and the removal or reduction of the duties on bread-stuffs and other farm products combine to make a more sweeping change in the products of the farm than any other. This is easily accounted for by the fact that the agricultural districts usually return heavy republican majorities, and retaliation is one of the features of democratic rule. Agricultural implements are placed on the free list, and this may be regarded as a sop to the farmer, but in view of the fact that comparatively few agricultural implements are imported farmers are not likely to be thus deceived, much less pleased.

The general substitution of ad valorem for specific duties is a feature of the bill which will elicit the criticism of many democrats as well as republicans. Specific duties have been favored heretofore as a means of checking fraud in the shape of misstatements as to value, and this is very essential as valuations placed upon imported goods cannot be verified except at the expense of much time and trouble. The new tariff bill will, in this respect, open the door to widespread fraud, as shown by an experience which renders it impossible to regard the present departure as an experiment.

It is claimed by the correspondents of democratic journals in New England that this section is particularly favored, but a comparison of the treatment of wool and cotton will show that the South is the section that has been favored so far as possible. While wool is placed on the free list and cotton producers are slightly protected, the cotton planter is protected and the manufacturer who uses imported cotton is protected to the general wiping out of the specific duties and the substitution of ad valorem duties is to be found in the cotton schedule, which makes the discrimination all the greater. This discrimination is not to be wondered at, however, when it is remembered that representatives of the South, including the chairman of the committee, were largely entrusted with the work of revising the tariff.

On the whole the democratic tariff bill is a piece of political patchwork which is much more disastrous to American interests than was expected it would be, and the only hope is that the protectionists in the democratic party will unite with the republicans in Congress to secure its modification.

A Question of Costs.

Courts are a necessary institution and they will undoubtedly remain so until the dawn of the millennium when litigants will cease from troubling and the lawyers be at rest. There are cases, however, in which no little amount of injustice appears to be done in order to obtain justice, and the case which was completed in the Chittenden County Court Monday is all to appearances one of them. This was a case brought to recover for damages alleged to have been received by the plaintiff in a personal encounter between himself and the defendant, and as is true of many other cases, the public had no interest whatever in the personal issue. A verdict was reached Monday when the jury awarded the plaintiff one cent for damages. It required over two weeks of time to arrive at this conclusion, and it cost the State in the neighborhood of $1200 to establish the fact that each of the litigants was about as much to blame as the other.

We also recall the fact that several old horses that many people would not accept as a gift have figured prominently in the courts of this and other counties, costing the State hundreds of dollars each, and one case must have involved the State in an expense of $1000 or so, as it has been tried several times and is not yet ended. At this rate it would be cheaper for the State to buy the horses in question outright, than to allow controversies over their defects or ownership to go to such lengths. And so with other cases of this description.
 The provision that the State shall bear a portion of the expense of trials of this nature is made with the idea of guaranteeing the rights of the poor man who is not able to bear the cost of a trial for his own vindication, and this is well; but common justice would seem to require that some limit be placed to the burden which the commonwealth can be made to assume for litigants in this manner. If the trial of the case just completed could continue for two or three weeks there would appear to be no good reason why it might not continue for six weeks or six months as regards the statutory limitations and so long as the strength of the lawyers held out; and the question is, how much of this sort of expense the State can legitimately be made to bear.

If no more economical means than County Courts can be devised for the extended trial of cases of this nature, the Legislature ought to so change the statutes that the amount to which the State treasury can be involved shall bear some due proportion to the sum recovered, and that if the litigation be carried to an unreasonable extent it be done at the expense of the litigants themselves. This might interfere somewhat with the business of our legal friends, but it would result in more common justice to all than the so-called justice which at present is altogether too common.

VERMONT PERSONALS.

Rev. J. W. Loom, pastor of the Bradford Congregational church during the past seven years, has tendered his resignation, to take effect with the last Sunday in December.

The Secret of Longevity.

Miss Eliza Work, a vivacious denizen of Haverhill, N. Y., who lately confessed to a round 100 summers, declares that she has never had occasion to use spectacles and that "my teeth are the same teeth I have always had." She ascribes her longevity and preservation to the fact that she never drank tea or coffee, and "above all, that she never got married." Her brother, she avers, might have been alive to-day had he not contracted the venereal habit. He also drank tea and coffee. As a result he died at the age of 101.

It is not surprising, therefore, to hear Miss Work solemnly admonish the human race to abjure marriage.

The Vermont Democrat.

What does the democratic party of Vermont do for the nation after any young man as an inducement to join it. (Only an opportunity to identify himself with whatever is un-American, un-patriotic and unbecoming in politics. An opportunity to divest himself of his self-respect and be leered at. An opportunity to mislead everything will, financial and dangerous in finance and political economy. An opportunity to subscribe to a faith which no one comprehends or would believe in if they did, principles which change and vacillate and water and disappear and reappear with every passing breath, platforms which are not meant to be carried out and would be dishonorable and revolutionary if they were. Just that and nothing else.

A Suggestion for Vt. Farmers.

It is high time that the farmers of Vermont should bestir themselves to amend the law which compels them to sell their wares at sixty-two pounds, to the benefit of the dealers in states where the legal weight is only sixty pounds. In this way Vermont farmers are cheated out of thousands of dollars. A very brief amendment would amend this wrong. It is only a few lines of law that should have been enacted in a legislature where farmers are often, if not always, able to control. It certainly was not made for the benefit of our own people.

The Editor's Mistake.

The editor of a weekly journal lately lost two of his subscribers, through accidentally departing from the better track in his answers to correspondents. Two of his subscribers wrote to ask him how to recover for lost respective troubles. No. 1, a happy father of twins, wrote to inquire the best way to get them safely over their teething, and No. 2 wanted to know how to protect his orchards from the ravages of grasshoppers. The editor framed his answer upon the orthodox lines, but unfortunately transposed their names, and the result was that No. 1, who was blessed with the twins, read, in reply to his query, "Cover them carefully with straw and set fire to them, and the little pests, after jumping about the flames a few minutes, will speedily be settled." While No. 2, plagued with grasshoppers, was told to "give a little castor oil and rub their gums gently with a bone."

OUR HAVERSACK.

Election of Post Offices and Delegates to the Encampment to Be Held in Burlington.

Department Commander George W. Doty has issued a general order exhorting Grand Army posts to exercise great care in the selection of officers for posts, the whole number being 135. Delegates, with an equal number of alternates, to the next department encampment to be held in Burlington, will be elected at the same time as the post officers. Comrade C. C. Johnson of Jarvis post, No. 43, of Springfield has been recommended as assistant inspector-general. Comrades W. W. Henry, Stanard post, No. 2, of Burlington; H. B. Wedge, Brooks post, No. 13, of Montpelier; and C. H. West, Chamberlain post, No. 1, of St. Johnsbury, have been recommended as assistants upon the staff of the commander-in-chief.

The department is to be congratulated that not a single post was reported delinquent to national headquarters for the term ending June 30. The department was No. 12 in getting in the consolidated report to the national headquarters. Had the officers of some four or five posts manifested a little more interest and zeal in the work, this department might have been nearer No. 1 than it was. It is hoped that this honorable record may continue, and the next reports may show a gain by muster and reinstatement.

James S. Gill has presented to O. O. Howard post, No. 33, G. A. R., of Ludlow, a memorial volume. In it will be written a history of the post and a brief sketch of each member; also short biographies of the donor and Maj. Gen. Howard, after whom the post was named.

For Over Fifty Years.

Mrs. WYMAN'S SCOTCH WHISKY has been used for children's colic, for the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures colds, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world.

No Political Hot-House Work Wanted.
 [From the Brattleboro Phoenix.]
 One of the great blessings of life in Vermont is that we do not have annual elections of State officers, and therefore do not keep the political crowd constantly boiling. Will the papers which have begun a discussion of the gubernatorial question, be settled next June, kindly suppress their effusions in this direction and deserve, if they do not receive, the thanks of the public? Nothing will be gained by a hot-house boom for any candidate.

Chocolate Cake
 Is no more troublesome to make than the plainest kind of cake if you use Lang's Ready-made Chocolate Icing. More than half the work is already done.
 Price 50c per lb. and 10c per lb. in bulk.
 Lang's Chocolate Co., Phila., Pa.
 First-Class and Chocolate Bakers.

THE KIND THAT CURES

Kidney and Liver Difficulty!
 "My Case Seemed Hopeless."
 "I Feel Like a New Man."

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA
 It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the blood, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the skin. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the lungs, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the stomach. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bowels, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bladder. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the prostate, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the uterus. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the ovaries, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vagina. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the cervix, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vulva. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the perineum, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the rectum. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the sigmoid, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the colon. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the small intestine, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the large intestine. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the stomach, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bowels. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bladder, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the prostate. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the uterus, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the ovaries. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vagina, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the cervix. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vulva, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the perineum. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the rectum, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the sigmoid. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the colon, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the small intestine. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the large intestine, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the stomach. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bowels, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bladder. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the prostate, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the uterus. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the ovaries, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vagina. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the cervix, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vulva. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the perineum, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the rectum. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the sigmoid, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the colon. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the small intestine, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the large intestine. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the stomach, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bowels. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bladder, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the prostate. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the uterus, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the ovaries. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vagina, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the cervix. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vulva, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the perineum. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the rectum, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the sigmoid. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the colon, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the small intestine. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the large intestine, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the stomach. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bowels, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bladder. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the prostate, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the uterus. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the ovaries, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vagina. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the cervix, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vulva. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the perineum, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the rectum. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the sigmoid, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the colon. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the small intestine, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the large intestine. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the stomach, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bowels. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bladder, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the prostate. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the uterus, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the ovaries. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vagina, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the cervix. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vulva, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the perineum. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the rectum, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the sigmoid. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the colon, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the small intestine. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the large intestine, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the stomach. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bowels, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bladder. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the prostate, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the uterus. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the ovaries, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vagina. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the cervix, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vulva. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the perineum, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the rectum. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the sigmoid, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the colon. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the small intestine, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the large intestine. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the stomach, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bowels. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bladder, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the prostate. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the uterus, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the ovaries. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vagina, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the cervix. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vulva, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the perineum. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the rectum, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the sigmoid. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the colon, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the small intestine. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the large intestine, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the stomach. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bowels, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bladder. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the prostate, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the uterus. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the ovaries, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vagina. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the cervix, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vulva. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the perineum, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the rectum. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the sigmoid, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the colon. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the small intestine, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the large intestine. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the stomach, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bowels. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bladder, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the prostate. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the uterus, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the ovaries. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vagina, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the cervix. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the vulva, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the perineum. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the rectum, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the sigmoid. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the colon, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the small intestine. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the large intestine, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the stomach. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bowels, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the bladder. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the prostate, and it is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the uterus. It is the only medicine that will cure all the diseases of the ovaries, and it is